LEGION FAVORS BONUS PAYMENT

The meeting held by Daly City Post No. 410, American Legion, last Friday night was well attended and proved to be very interesting.

Daly City Post went on record as being opposed to any contemplated cut in salaries of Federal employees, as a reduced salary means less buying power, and will be felt throughout the country. A copy of this resolution is to be forwarded to all Congressmen of California.

For the second time the Post went on record as favoring the immediate payment of the bonus in full. Many veterans are walking the streets in search of work, and are unable to support their families. The payment of the bonus now would be a godsend to them, and also will put more money in circulation. A copy of this resolution was forwarded to Department Headquarters of the American Legion.

In accordance with instructions from national headquarters, Commander Jack Mockler has appointed an unemployment committee. Comrade Jordan was elected chairman, and has announced that his slogan is "No job too big or too small." Any one who knows of a job, or who has any work to do, kindly get in touch with Comrade Jordan. His phone number is Delaware 9157.

Comrade Rocco, Commander of the San Mateo Voiture of the Forty and Eight, passed away on Thursday of last week. His funeral was held last Saturday. Commander Mockler and Comrade Crane, also members of the Forty and Eight, attended the funeral. San Mateo county Legionnaires have lost a good leader and a sincere worker in the passing of Comrade Rocco. He was well liked by all who knew him.

The spring session of the Department executive committee, composed of the area, district Commanders and the committee and commission chairmen, will be held on Saturday and Sunday, March 19 and 20, in the Supervisors' chambers of the San Francisco City Hall. At the Saturday session at 7:30 P. M., sharp, all district Commanders will be called upon to read written reports, to be prepared in advance. At the Sunday sessions reports from chairmen of committees and commissions will be had, together with the transaction of any business to come before the committee. Hotel Whitcomb, 1231 Market street, will be the official headquarters. All Legionnaires are invited to attend all sessions of the committee.

As the next meeting of Daly City Post No. 410, on Friday, March 25, happens to be Good Friday, the members have decided not to have any meeting. The next meeting will be held on Friday, April 8.

The social committee announces that a Leap Year dance will be held on Saturday evening, March 26, in Eagles Hall. "Doc" and his haywire orchestra will furnish the music. Refreshments will be served, and Comrade Joe Salugari will be in charge of the kitchen. Bring your friends and spend and evening with Daly City Legionnaires.

Is the Legion Politcal?

Absolutely not. Sections 2 and 3, Article II, of the Constitution says:

"Section 2. The American Legion shall be absolutely non-political, and shall not be used for the dissemination of partisan principles nor for the promotion of the candidacy of any person seeking public office or preferment. No candidate for or incumbent of a remunerative elective public office shall hold any office in the American Legion or in any department or post thereof.

"Section 3. Each member shall perform his full duty as a citizen according to his own conscience and understanding."

Is the Legion Non-Sectarian?

Absolutely. No distinction of sect or creed is recognized.

PALM SUNDAY AT THE DALY CITY M. E. CHURCH

The church services will begin at 8 P. M. Sunday We have been holding the services early to accommodate those who desired to attend the Anderson Crusade. It seemed best, however, to hold the service this week and next Sunday being Easter we wanted to hold the service at a time that would accommodate the most people. So from now on the services will be at 8 P. M.

The sacrament of Baptism will be observed and their will be a reception of members. The sermon topic is "The Message of Jesus to the Man in Danger." The wise man knows how to be fearless without being foolish. He knows fear is a dangerous foe, as is also recklessness. He has good courage because he knows one who overcame the world, and demonstrated this spirit on the first Palm Sunday.

BOY SCOUT RALLY ON APRIL EIGHTH

In the last few issues of this publication much has been said concerning the grand rally to be staged by the local units of Boy Scouts and Cubs.

At the regular meeting of the District Committee, on Wednesday evening of last week, the date on which the rally will be held was tentatively set as Friday, April 8, at 8 P. M.

The main purpose of this event is to display to the residents of this city the achievements made by the Boy Scouts during the past year. The entire parentage of this community should be vitally interested in the furtherment of this movement, and with this object in mind, it is requested that you publicly express such interest by making it a point to be present at this rally. It is the duty of the mothers and fathers to encourage the young fellows, so let's all get behind the Boy Scouts and prove to them that they are for them 100 per cent. The public is cordially invited to attend. There will be no admission charge.

Mr. Bodien, chairman of the District Committee, and L. W. Johnston, District Commissioner, assisted by an enthusiastic committee of hard workers, are exerting every effort to make this rally a big success. Mr. Bodien has promised to announce the completed program very shortly, which, we understand, consists of many novel stunts and attractions that will prove surprising.

The Scoutmasters have undertaken the assignment of solving a very difficult problem. That will be to select a new location for the camping grounds of the Boy Scouts and Cubs for their over-night outings during the coming summer. It will be necessary to have a location that is ideal, from a sanitary standpoint and protected naturally from the elements. It will also be in short driving distance from Daly City. When such a location has been decided upon, the privilege of attending well regulated over-night trips will be offered the Scouts and Cubs.

LEGION AUXILIARY TO CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY

Daly City Unit No. 410, American Legion Auxiliary, will celebrate their first birthday this Friday evening at their regular meeting.

In looking back we can well be proud of all our accomplishments, this our first year. Our hospitalization work, under the chairmanship of June Craft, has advanced rapidly. Each month books, cigarette and many other supplies have been taken to Letterman hospital. Our card parties given at the Hut in the Presidio have become a regular monthly feature and are looked forward to with much pleasure by the boys.

On Friday evening, April 1, a dinner will be given at Eagles Hall, at 7 o'clock. Tickets can be purchased from any member of the Unit. Adults 50 cents; children 25 cents.

Wednesday afternoon of this week a whist party was given at the home of Mrs. Sue Sanders, of Woodrow street, for the benefit of the Unit, and proved to be a very delightful affair.

The Unit is very proud of the fact that they have organized the first Junior Auxiliary in the Eighth District. Friday afternoon of last week the Juniors of the Ladies' Auxiliary, American Legion, Daly City Unit No. 410, met at Eagles Hall and installed their newly elected officers.

Mrs. Gladys Anderson, District President, and Mrs. Julia Jordan, the Unit President, conducted the installation, after which the newly installed officers conducted their first business meeting.

Following are the officers chosen: Lila Crane, president; Betty Talmage, first vice-president; Alice Sanders, second vice-president; Gladys Brown, past president; Guinevere Callsen, secretary-treasurer; Marian Miller, chaplain; Barbara Foreman, sergeant-at-arms; and Ethel Hill, marshal.

At the conclusion of the meeting, President Julia Jordan had a little surprise in store, serving all present ice cream and cake.

Mrs. Grace Hill, as director, is working out a very fine program to be carried out by this new organization during the coming months.

All Junior members be sure and attend the next meeting to be held on Wednesday afternoon, March 23, at 3:30, at Crocker club rooms, 12 Wellington avenue.

Public Welfare Program

A program directed by Mrs. S. A. Landini, fourth vice-president of the Seventeenth district, will be held at the San Mateo high school this Friday, March 18, at 2 P. M.

CITY COUNCILMAN ARTHUR J. BODIEN

When Arthur J. Bodien was elected to the office of City Trustee on Monday, April 14, 1924, it was generally recognized that a wise choice had been made and that Mr. Bodien would devote himself wholheartedly to the service of the people. The expectations of his friends have been realized and he has now served the city conscientiously for eight years. With the sincere good wishes of all his friends, and with an excellent record behind him, his name is presented for the third time to the voters of Daly City. Mr. Bodien will be a candidate for re-election to the office of City Councilman on Tuesday, April 11th.

It seems almost superfluous to make any statement regarding the record and achievements of a man who is so widely known in this community, but there are many new residents who will vote next month, and the following facts may be submitted for their information.

Mr. Bodien took up his residence in Daly City about twenty-five years ago, and has always been a careful student and close observer of local conditions. For some time prior to his election in 1924 he had kept closely in touch with the work of the City Council. He was a member of the first improvement club formed in the city, and also of the first Volunteer Fire Department organized here. At present he is a member of Company No. 4, Daly City Fire Department, of the Veteran Firemen's Association of Daly City, of the San Mateo County Firemen's Association, and of the California State Firemen's Association.

He has been actively associated for many years with the Colma-Vista Grande Aerie of Eagles, of which organization he is Past President. He is also Past President of the Associated Aeries of San Mateo County, and has filled the office of chairman of the finance committee of the State Lodge of Eagles. He was organizer for Daly City's famous Eagles' Drum Corps, which gained national distinction some years ago.

Mr. Bodien has always maintained an excellent labor record. For seven years he was President of the Brass and Chandelier Workers' Local No. 158, which organization he represented in the San Francisco Labor Council, and the Iron Trades Council. His ability was recognized while serving in this capacity some years ago when he was selected as delegate to an important Eastern convention. He is at present a member of Machinists' Union No. 68, and for the past twelve years foreman for F. G. Dyer Brass Foundry Machine Works.

Mr. Bodien has taken a prominent part in the work of the Boy Scouts of America and is President of the Daly City District Council. He has given freely in time and energy to the activities of the Boy Scouts, and has taken advantage of every opportunity to develop and strengthen this excellent work. He is also a member of the Jefferson Union High School Parent-Teachers' Association.

During his eight years at the City Hall, Mr. Bodien has served acceptably on various committees. At present he is chairman of the Fire, Streets, and City Planning Committees. What he and his colleagues have accomplished is manifest everywhere throughout the city. The development of the City Park, referred to in these columns recently, has been almost a hobby with Mr. Bodien, with the gratifying result which is observable today.

He has been continually active for the welfare of the city since the moment of his election in 1924. He has justified the confidence of the people and has demonstrated on every

CITY COUNCILMAN H. SUNDERMANN

The city election held on Monday, April 12, 1920, excited great interest and a spirited contest was waged. Seven candidates entered the race and when the votes were counted it was found that the honor of leading the field had been awarded to Henry Sundermann. The choice of the people rested upon one of the earliest settlers in Daly City, for Mr. Sundermann arrived in these parts in 1906 and has been marching forward with the city ever since.

When a man has held a position of responsibility for twelve years and when his continuance in that position is subject to the will of the people, it is fairly safe to conclude that his services have been satisfactory in every respect. The voters of Daly City have three times set their approval upon Henry Sundermann's services since he was first elected to office. On Monday, April 11, they will be given another opportunity of expressing their appreciation of his long and valuable service, when his name will appear on the ballot as a candidate for the office of City Councilman.

He has served in various capacities at the City Hall and is now Chairman of the Finance and Library Committees and a member of the Police Committee. He has been connected with the activities of the Library from its commencement and has earnestly fostered its development. Mr. Sundermann and his colleagues on the Finance Committee have achieved distinction. State statistics reveal that Daly City stands almost in a class apart in the matter of economy in city finance. The annual per capita expense in Daly City is shown to be only slightly over $8.00, whereas most municipalities of the same class have difficulty in keeping the figure below the $20.00 mark. This mathematical testimonial to the efficiency of the Finance Committee speaks for itself. Further complimentary evidence regarding the efficiency of Mr. Sundermann in this department has been contributed by the accountants who annually conduct an audit of the city books.

Mr. Sundermann is a member of the Eagles, Masonic and Odd Fellows' Lodges. He is also connected with the Sciots' Band, San Mateo Pyramid, and an honorary member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Musicians' Post, No. 1944. He is an honorary member of Company No. 4 of Daly City Fire Department, a charter member of the Veteran Firemen's Association of Daly City, and is affiliated with the Milk Wagon Drivers' Union, No. 226. He also belongs to the Jefferson Union High School Parent-Teachers' Association and to the Daly City District Council, Boy Scouts of America. He has held the office of Fire Marshal of the Daly City Volunteer Fire Department, and later served as Fire Chief.

He holds a responsible position with the Dairy Delivery Company, with which firm he has been connected in various capacities for many years. His business training has proved of great value in his municipal work and has aided him materially in his conduct of financial affairs. He is naturally careful, reasonable and conservative, and these characteristics have equipped him excellently for the departmental work in which he has specialized.

The twelve year period which represents Mr. Sundermann's tenure of office has brought about great changes in the life of this city. The records show that he has given his co-operation in every progressive

PARKING SPACE TO BE INCREASED

A regular meeting of the City Council was held last Monday evening, March 14, all members being present and Mayor H. H. Smith presiding.

A communication was received from the Daly City Merchants' Association, advising the Council of the Daly City Merchants Association's appointment of W. H. Clay, Dave Campbell and Dr. F. P. Callsen to consult with the Council about parking facilities in the very near future.

A petition for a street light in the vicinity of Guttenberg and Bellevue avenue was received. The petition contained twelve signatures of residents in the immediate vicinity. This matter was referred to the lighting committee.

A communication was received from the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, advising the Council that they do not permit attachments of any kind to be placed on their poles, further announcing that if any were nailed on, their men would be instructed to take them off. This matter was referred to the Chief of Police.

The library committee reported that 3,852 books were distributed last month.

The monthly report of the poundmaster was read and filed.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL NOTES OF INTEREST

Mr. R. L. Crane, district superintendent of schools, and Chief of Police Doyle have arranged to have a traffic officer detailed to the Vista Grande school at noon and after school. This is a good example of the splendid cooperation given the schools by the police department.

In a state-wide contest given by the Ovaltine Company, we are pleased to learn that a pupil of the Jefferson district was successful in winning one of the tempting awards. An award of a gold wrist watch was offered for the greatest number of words that could be made from the letters in the word "Ovaltine." Miss Adrienne Domecus, 10 year old pupil of Miss Gannon of Thornton school, submitted 160 words and is now the proud possessor of a gold watch.

Two baseball games, the first of the season, were played on Friday, March 11. The first, a five inning game, between the unlimited teams of Woodrow Wilson and Crocker, resulted in a victory of 3 to 1 for Crocker. Jack Sheridan, captain of the Crocker team, pitched a good game, as did Henry Mendola, captain of Woodrow Wilson. Crocker made two runs on errors in the first inning. Crocker made two hits and Woodrow Wilson made two hits. Jack walked five and Henry walked three. There were seven errors for Woodrow Wilson and two errors for Crocker. Albert Giusti of Woodrow Wilson made a wonderful throw from left-field, but the catcher dropped it. The line-ups were as follows: Crocker—Albert Greggori, Robert Owens, Alvin Wright, Jack Sheridan, Bill Elder, Bill Hart, George Young, John Dunn and Jack Grantham. Woodrow-Wilson—Joe Lucia, Gordon Jones, Earl Bobitt, Henry Mendola, Fred Ambrosia, Paul Ragglianti, Harold Leggett, Albert Giusti, Jack Wilson and Natchie Mendola.

The second game was between the girls' A teams of Woodrow Wilson and Crocker. Woodrow Wilson defeated Crocker, 25 to 3.

The girls' lineup follows: Woodrow Wilson — Captain Ferrell Dodson, Winnie Baldacci, Opal Asher, Marie Gust, Viva Keithley, Lillian Lemos, Marjorie Holcomb, Dottie Beecher, Adeline Perada, Elizabeth Carboni and Alice De Ram. Crocker—Captain Myrtle Chandler, Ethel Miller, Betty Hart, Barbara Monette, Barbara Vernergo, Dolores Allen, Evelyn Johnson, Angelina Continola and Alice Baggs.

A beautiful acacia tree was dedicated to the memory of Luther Burbank on Tuesday afternoon, March 8, at the Crocker school, by the members of the Crocker P. T. A. Mrs. Alexander, the first president of the Crocker P. T. A. dedicated the tree. The pupils of the Crocker school sang two songs. "The Life and Work of Luther Burbank" was read by Rita Sadler.

Daly City Council No. 2712, K. of C., will receive their annual communion in a body at Our Lady of Perpetual Help church, on Palm Sunday, March 20, at 8 A. M. mass. Breakfast will be served for the members following the mass. Several very able speakers have been obtained for this occasion, which, it is hoped, will prove as memorable as those of previous years. Second and third degrees will be conferred this year at San Mateo on Sunday, April 17.

GEHRINGER MAKES SPLENDID RECORD

Adolph Gehringer is a candidate to succeed himself as a member of the Board of Trustees of the Jefferson Union high school. The election will take place in the several grammar schools throughout the district on next Friday.

Mr. Gehringer's candidacy meets with popular approval throughout the entire district and especially among those who are interested in the educational welfare of the children and the economic operation of the high school.

Ten years ago Mr. Gehringer was elected a member of the Board of Trustees when the high school was organized, and has served the district continuously ever since. During this period the high school building and shop building have been constructed, and it was largely due to his wise council and the drawing up of plans and the letting of contracts that the district has buildings of the most modern type constructed at a minimum cost. In addition, during the construction of the buildings, Trustee Gehringer gave most valuable aid by supervising closely the work as it proceeded, and seeing that the specifications in the contracts were lived up to. This service, which could be rendered only by a practical builder such as Mr. Gehringer is, was worth to the taxpayers of the district many thousands of dollars. As a result, the buildings of the Jefferson Union high school are a monument to the efficiency of the Board of Trustees in the wise expenditure of public money.

Mr. Gehringer has also stood with the other members of the Board of Trustees in the application of the strictest economy in the operation of the school. As a result of this policy, Jefferson Union high school is one of the most economically administered high schools in the state of California. This fact is shown by a report of the California State Department of Education, Division of Research and Statistics, dated October 2, 1931, and which tabulates the various expenditures in the schools included in the group of from 300 to 400 in average daily attendance. Jefferson Union high school comes within this group. This report shows that Jefferson stands at the head of the list in low teacher cost per pupil in average daily attendance. In Jefferson high the figure is $100.27. For the other schools included in the study, the teacher cost per pupil in average daily attendance runs up to as high as $183.03.

In the total district expenditures per pupil in average daily attendance, Jefferson stands third from the top, with the sum of $183.58. The two ahead of Jefferson have an expenditure of $182.39 and $182.75, respectively, while the highest cost in other schools in the list is $404.88, or over twice that of Jefferson, which is only $183.58.

In the current expenditures per pupil in average daily attendance, Jefferson stands second from the top with a figure of $161.38. The lowest in this list is $156.20, and the highest is $289.63, which is 79 per cent more than Jefferson's.

The report further shows that these low costs in Jefferson high are not due to an excessive load being given to each teacher. The average daily attendance per full-time employee in Jefferson is eighteen. In this respect there are eight with higher averages

POPULAR TRUSTEE SEEKS RE-ELECTION

George R. Augustien, who has served Jefferson school district for the past nine years, is again before the public for re-election, on Friday, March 25.

He has acted as chairman of the board of trustees during the whole time of his service and does this with uniform courtesy to all who appear before him. Trustee Augustien's earnestness as an official is shown by the regularity of his attendance at the meetings. He is always the first to put in an appearence and is seldom absent.

It is his ambition to endeavor to keep all things going harmoniously toward providing the best possible education for every child of the entire district and generous consideration for all the teachers. In this he is ably upheld by his two colleagues W. J. Sweeney and Louis Nava. There is never any clashing at the meetings, as the business is conducted promptly and in a friendly manner.

There is no compensation for a school trustee, except the personal satisfaction of doing something for the benefit of others and the appreciation of those whom he serves.

His willingness to serve another term is evidence that he enjoys the work and a large vote is expected to be cast for him on election day.

CALIFORNIA NEWS REVIEW

Oakland was recently credited by State statistics as being the only large city in California which showed an increase in its birth rate in 1931 over that of 1930. City Health Officer Arthur Heironymus received a report from the State Department of Public Health showing that in 1931 there were 4181 babies born in Oakland, as compared with the 1930 total of 4176.

Wit and humor. Smoothness and dispatch in handling the sparkling "wise crack." Facility and fluency in the telling of Scotch jokes and other dialect stories. These are some of the things required of State employes nowadays. Civil service examinations now contain twenty "funny stories" designed to see whether applicants for jobs are witty enough to get along well with other people.

Three times the water supply of 1931 is stored in Merced and Tuolumne river water sheds in Yosemite valley in the form of hard packed snow, a report of the National Park Service shows. The report is based on figures obtained by park rangers and snow gaugers, who have been making a survey of the Yosemite area. The indications, says the park service, are for a bountiful supply of water for summer.

The Tulare county squad of the California Highway Patrol is to receive the honor cup signifying the greatest decrease in motor vehicle deaths within that county's boundaries during 1931. E. Raymond Cato, chief of the patrol, announces Tulare county leads the list with a reduction of nineteen deaths during the year, its total being thirty-five, as compared to fifty-four during the preceding year.

In order to set at rest rumors in State circles that a 10 per cent reduction in salaries is contemplated State Director of Finance Rolland Vandegrift recently asserted that he "knew of no plan to cut salaries." He said it is the expressed policy of Governor James Rolph that "State salaries should be the last to be cut," although he is on record against further salary increases.

The United States Forest Service announced the national forests of California had returned to the State and counties $4,311,456, to and including the fiscal year 1931, in lieu of taxes on government-owned lands within national forests. This figure was announced as being 25 per cent of gross revenues derived by the forest service from the sale and use of resources within national forests, and was described as the largest return to any State.

The recent Imperial County Fair, first on Southern California's 1932 calendar, escaped the rain "jinx" that had pursued it for two previous years and exhibited its wares under comparatively favorable conditions. Even this year there was a threat of rain, and a sprinkle did come, but the precipitation did not amount to enough to dampen either the earth or the spirits of the crowds, the attendance being excellent. The fair opened on February 9 and closed the night of February 14.

The State Department of Public Works awarded contracts totaling $15,556.34 for eradication of weeds by oiling along highways in twenty-one counties, as follows: San Mateo, Alameda, Santa Clara, Santa Cruz and Contra Costa counties, $3,633.44; Los Angeles and Ventura counties, $2,268; Mendocino, Sonoma, Marin, Solano, Lake and Napa counties, $5,580; San Diego, Los Angeles, Orange and Imperial counties, $2,016; Amador, Calaveras, Tuolumne and Stanislaus counties, $2,028.60.

With but 5.5 major crimes per 10,000 inhabitants committed there last year, San Jose leads all California cities in its population level for freedom for the five major crimes for which United States Department of Justice statistics are available, figures compiled recently show. During 1931 there were but 32 major crimes in this city. Pasadena and Berkeley are the two cities that came closest to equaling San Jose's record, with 53 and 66 major crimes, respectively, an average of 7 and 8 per 10,000 inhabitants.

Members of the 1925-1926 Modesto Board of Education acted entirely within their legal rights when they spent $16,000 for the purchase of school buses, and will not have to make a refund to the treasury out of their own pockets. Superior Judge Leon R. Yankwich of Los Angeles, who presided in the trial of a suit brought by W. R. Nelson, Modesto taxpayer, against the Board of Education, so had ruled in a decision which upheld the trustees in every phase of the transaction.

The Glenn County Fish and Game Protective Association and the Willows Chamber of Commerce were on record recently as favoring establishment of a game refuge at West Side. At a meeting of these and other organizations it was contended game was gradually decreasing and that a breeding ground is necessary for geese and ducks.

Vierling Kersey announced recently he had definitely decided to resign as State superintendent of schools on August 1 to become superintendent of schools at Long Beach.

Announcement was made recently that the 1932 Livermore Stockmen's Rodeo and Pioneer Celebration will be held on May 14 and 15. In previous years the rodeo was held in July. "Some of the greatest cowboys in the world will be seen in action at the rodeo," M. R. Henry, director of advertising, said. "Special honors will be paid to Johnny Schneider of Livermore, who last year won the cowboy championship of the world."

Preservation of approximately 6000 acres of fine redwood forests in Northern California has been made possible by a gift of $500,000 by Edward S. Harkness of New York, the Save-the-Redwoods League has announced. The contribution of the New Yorker has been matched in part by funds from the California State Park Commission and deed to the forest lands acquired by the commission. The new acreage added to the public's domain lies along either side of Prairie Creek from about fifteen miles north of Orick, to a few miles beyond the Del Norte county line, starting about 342 miles north of San Francisco.

Work on the Hetch Hetchy tunnel through the coast range on the San Francisco municipal water supply project will continue without new financing by the city for the next four months. The agreement by the 1300 men employed on the tunnel to accept Hetch Hetchy bonds instead of cash for the monthly pay rolls made possible the continuation of the work, Chief Engineer O'Shaughnessy said. He praised the spirit of the men in accepting the plan. Water in storage in the water department reservoirs is estimated at 30,715,000,000 gallons, the record high mark. The previous high record was set late in the winter of 1910 when 26,000,000,000 gallons were in storage.

State traffic officers are being instructed by E. Raymond Cato, chief of the California Highway Patrol, to stop all motor vehicles operating upon the public highways with 1931 license plates. Drivers of such cars will be required to show evidence that they have applied for 1932 plates, Cato said, and if such evidence cannot be produced the car will be seized and the owner refused permission to operate it until he has paid the license fee and delinquent charges. Russell Bevans, registrar of motor vehicles, pointed out that the legal registration period expired January 31. He said the department has no desire to cause anyone annoyance or hardship but that the law makes it the department's duty to collect license fees.

Governor Rolph has issued a proclamation calling on all California citizens to observe May 28 as "Poppy Day in honor and memory of the sacrifices made by the brave men and women who participated in the World War." This Poppy Day is sponsored by the American Legion. Proceeds from the sale of paper poppies are to be used in aiding those crippled in the World War. "Lest we forget those who lie 'over there;' those who have passed to the great beyond in their own country; and those who are now struggling to rehabilitate themselves despite the cruel handicaps placed upon them by the war, I hereby proclaim May 28, as 'Poppy Day' throughout the State of California,' the Governor said in his proclamation concluding with the appeal to give whole-hearted support.

Army air fields in California will receive more than $2,753,500, including $1,556,500 for Benton Field, Alameda, for the construction of landing fields, hangars, shops, storage facilities and technical buildings in an appropriation bill introduced in the House of Representatives by Representaive James, Michigan, recently. March Field, Riverside county, will receive $15,000, and Rockwell Field, San Diego county. $1,172,000. Representative James, who introduced the bill, is the ranking Republican on the House Military Committee. He was a San Francisco visitor last summer, and inspected the Presidio at the request of Representative Florence P. Kahn. The bill is a companion measure to the $15,000,000 army housing bill proposed by Representative James. The appropriations for Benton Field and for Rockwell Field are the largest.

Part of an amendment passed by the Legislature last year regarding the fixing of sentences of prisoners in the State penitentiaries was declared invalid by Atty.-Gen. Webb. The amendment gave the board of prison directors power to revoke its decision and give the maximum sentence to any prisoner who broke prison rules or escaped after his sentence had been fixed. Webb, in an opinion asked by Mark E. Noon, clerk of the board of prison terms and paroles, said the law applies only to convicts whose terms had not been determined prior to August 14, 1931, and that that portion of the law purporting to give authority to increase sentences fixed prior to that date was invalid. The Attorney-General explained that under the amendment the fixing of sentence is conditional, while under the old law it was a final determination which could not be changed.

Nineteen organizations of growers and shippers of fruits and vegetables have notified the State Chamber of Commerce they will support the chamber's campaign for a $50 000 Congressional appropriation for a study of the export problem.

Farmers who raise cattle and hogs must take care that odors arising do not cause offense to owners of adjoining property, the Appellate Court has ruled. The court affirmed a judgment of the Yolo County Superior Court which ordered abatement of such a nuisance

EASTER—A Day of Many Meanings

1. President Hoover greeting the crowd gathered for the annual "Easter egg rolling" on the lawn of the White House.
2. Sunrise services on Easter morning in the Garden of the Gods, near Colorado Springs, Colo.
3. The Easter lily, one of the loveliest of all Easter symbols.
4. The Hollywood Bowl, Hollywood, Calif., where an impressive Easter morning service is held every year.

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

IT'S an "early Easter" this year, for Easter Sunday falls on March 27. Last year it came on April 3 and next year it will come on April 16. For all the red letter days on our calendar Easter is the most variable. The only thing certain about it is that it always comes on a Sunday and it is limited to either one of two months, March and April. Then there are other limits, too, that is, it cannot come earlier than March 22 nor later than April 25.

Why all this variation in such an important annual festival? The reasons go back into ancient history.

The festival now known as Easter was celebrated by ancient Israel as the Passover for many centuries before the birth of Jesus Christ. It was based upon the events which took place when the Hebrews were saved from the destruction which was visited upon the Egyptians, as given in Exodus 12:27. The first Christians, being in the main Jews, continued for a long time to observe the Passover as well as other ancient ceremonies. But gradually these early followers of the Cross began to substitute the Christ for the paschal lamb of Israel in the Passover ceremonies.

Eventually there arose a difference of opinion between the Christians of Hebrew descent and those of Gentile descent as to the time when these ceremonies should be celebrated. Those of Hebrew descent declared that the day of the death of Jesus should be the date of the ending of the paschal fast, which in Hebrew rites, always was on the fourteenth day of the moon in the evening. Therefore the Easter festival, which followed, might fall on any day of the week. Those of Gentile descent, however, wanted the first day of the week, Sunday, to be the first day of the resurrection festival. Thus the Friday preceding would be observed as the date of the crucifixion without paying any attention to the day of the month, the fast continuing until midnight of Saturday.

The dispute over this point was complicated by the irregularities of the time of full moon in relation to the year. The Hebrew sacred year began at the instant of the vernal equinox, but this time is subject to slight changes due to the astronomical fact of perturbation of the motion of all bodies in the solar system. The Hebrews based their years on lunar changes, whereas we now determine the exact length of a year by the sun and stars, which is more accurate. It is notable that the ancient Hebrews always had trouble with their chronology because they based the beginning of each month on the first sight of the new moon.

The trouble was principally due to the fact that the moon revolves around the earth in 27 days, 7 hours, 43 minutes and 11½ seconds, and the earth around the sun in 31,558,149 seconds. Therefore the moon makes 13.3687 revolutions to the earth's one. Full-moon times are also out of harmony with the spring equinox, and this fact caused trouble in determining time in ancient times. The result of all these complications was that by applying the Jewish rules to Easter, the dates of the crucifixion and the resurrection, two days which were supposed to be fixed for all time, varied constantly.

For 325 years the difficulty between the Christions of Jewish descent and those of Gentile descent continued. Not being able to decide the recurrence of Easter, the council of the early Christian church finally appealed to the astronomers in Alexandria, Egypt, for aid. However, the scientists were not of much assistance, for they had no lunar tables such as we now have, computed by master mathematicians. They attempted to make rules, but the variations of the full moon in reference to the year would not cause Easter to fall on Sunday any more than any other day. All wanted it to come on Sunday, so each nation celebrated to suit itself so that it would come on that day. Thus in A. D. 387 the Gauls celebrated Easter on March 21, in Italy it fell on April 18, and in Egypt it fell on April 25.

Eventually the selection of a certain Sunday was definitely fixed during the Sixth century A. D. It was designated as the Sunday between the fifteenth and twenty-first days of the moon in the first month of the Jewish lunar years. It was directed that the computation should be made according to the tables of Victorius of Acquitaine, introduced in 457 A. D. Because of the fact that Britain had ceased to be a part of the Roman empire, the Sixth century decree did not affect the British church at first, and it continued to calculate Easter on a basis previously approved at Rome. The matter was finally disposed of at a synod held at Whitby in Yorkshire in 664 A. D., after which the clergy of the British Isles conformed to the general practice of the western church.

Accordingly Easter is now observed by both the Roman Catholic and Protestant churches on the first Sunday after the full moon (or fourteenth day of the moon) on or next after March 21. So it cannot be earlier than March 22 nor later than April 25. Thus it is possible for the astronomers and mathematicians to tell in advance on what dates Easter will come each year, and they are now known for more than a century in advance.

That, of course, is based upon the assumption that our calendar will continue unchanged. But there is a possibility that some time within the next few years a new calendar system will be adopted and in that case Easter Sunday will be a fixed date instead of a variable one.

So, in case you're interested in knowing what will be the Easter dates for the next few years, here they are:

1933	April 16
1934	April 1
1935	April 21
1936	April 12
1937	March 28
1938	April 17
1939	April 9
1940	March 24
1941	April 13
1942	April 5
1943	April 25
1944	April 9
1945	April 1
1946	April 21
1947	April 6
1948	March 28
1949	April 17
1950	April 9

Just as Easter is now a variable date, so has it a variable meaning to many different people. To the child, who cannot grasp its religious significance, it means a day whose symbols are rabbits, little chickens and Easter eggs. To those children, too, who like to think of any festival time in terms of something good to eat, Easter time means candy eggs, candy rabbits and other candy symbols of the day, not to mention those fragrant, sugary piles of the mystically marked confection, known as hot cross buns.

How did a bakery product come to be associated with Easter anyway? It goes back to the days of the ancient Saxons who worshipped Easter as goddess of the dawn and benign giver of new life with the coming of the vernal equinox. That was long before they had ever heard of Christianity and the Resurrection. In their joy at the return of new life in the springtime they brought the Easter goddess their sweetest cakes, at the same time eating great numbers of them themselves.

They clung to this custom even after they had embraced Christianity. Some of the early Christian leaders were a bit dubious of preserving such a relic of a heathen religion but some tolerant person who was also a genius for compromise, suggested to the priests that they bless the pagan cakes, marking them with the cross. Thus the Saxon Easter biscuit was made fit for Christian consumption and for centuries afterwards it was felt that they were endowed with some special spiritual qualities. A few cross-buns baked on Good Friday not only would not molder, as would other bread, but if kept throughout the year they would be an efficient medicine for various ills when crumbled in a cup of water and thus taken into the body.

To most people Easter means a time for coming forth in new clothes and although some of our philosophers have bewailed the extravagance of the "Easter style parade" as a sign that we have lost the spiritual significance of the day in reality it is in keeping with the essential spirit of Easter, which is shared by Christian and pagan alike. It is the idea of "resurrection," of revived life after apparent death. It marks the climax of the year when all nature awakes from sleep, throws off the death-like chill of winter and beings to live anew. With all nature pointing the way by bedecking herself in new raiment, it is only natural that mankind should celebrate the surge of new life by putting on new apparel.

So when milady appears at church on Easter Sunday in a new frock and a new hat, it is not mere human vanity expressing itself. She puts them on because she must! She has responded to the fundamental instinct by responding thus to the call of spring, to the message of renewed life. There is an old British tradition that it is "good luck to wear something new on Easter day," but that is a mere outgrowth of the essential idea of the Eastertide.

Far as some of the symbols of Easter and their meanings for different people may seem to be removed from the essential spirit of Easter, they are in reality not so far removed. For all of them are based upon the idea of "ressurection" and if "resurrection" is the spirit and the message of Easter, then the inmost essence of that spirit can be summed up in the one word "immortality." If man can find an answer to the old, old question that has troubled him through the ages, the question "Does death end all?" he can find it in the message of Easter. It is reassurance that he does not face a hopeless task. Even if he did not have the comfort of his religion to help him arrive at that belief, he finds it in the mere fact of living.

Each day, each year and each lifetime he sees the cycle repeated. The sun comes up in the morning and goes down into darkness at night. But he knows that it will come up again the next morning. Each 24 hours he sees the miracle of resurrection. New life is manifest in the animal and vegetable kingdoms with each recurring spring. It ripens in the heat of summertime and mellows into maturity in the autumn, only to die in the cold of winter. But he knows that life will begin again next year. Each 12 months he sees the miracle of resurrection. A baby is born, passes through childhood, grown into youth, reaches man's estate and then declines into old age. What if the darkness of death is only a matter of a few years away? He has seen the recurring miracle of resurrection every 24 hours and every 12 months. Why should not man, reasoning logically from this evidence of which he is aware every day of his life, believe that the cycle of a lifetime includes a resurrection just as does the daily cycle and the yearly cycle? He does so believe and from that belief comes his belief in the life everlasting, in immortality.

Perhaps it would be more accurate to say he chooses to believe. For few men, of any, have ever solved the riddle of life to their utter satisfaction. They constantly grope for the truth, seeking, always seeking, the answer to the unsolved problems of life. They have the never-ending longing in their hearts for everlasting life and they choose to believe, and take comfort from the belief, that they shall have it.

So whether he be primitive man or modern, civilized man, whether he be Christian or heathen, the essential spirit of Easter, the message of Easter is the same—it is a message of hope, a message of joy and a promise and a fulfillment in one.

than Jefferson, running up to twenty-one. But on the other hand, the lowest on the list is only twelve. The economy of operation in Jefferson is, therefore, not due to excessive load upon the teachers but rather to an equitable distribution of the work and an elimination of wasted energy through skeleton classes.

As there has been economy in administration, so has there been efficiency. Graduates of the Jefferson Union high school are received by the colleges and universities upon the same basis as graduates of all other accredited schools in California. In non-academic work the school compares favorably with any other school in similar lines. And in this respect it may be said without boasting that Jefferson enjoys a most enviable reputation in such lines for instance as commercial branches, commercial art, and auto mechanics.

The efficiency of the present administration of the high school is also seen in the school plant itself, including the grounds. What was but a weed patch a few years ago has been converted into a place af beauty of which the citizens of the entire district are proud. The football field is unsurpassed anywhere in California. The baseball field is a delight to players and fans alike. And here it may be remarked, the Jefferson Union high school Board of Trustees is rendering great service by throwing the grounds open to the boys and girls of the community at all times outside of school days.

And notwithstanding all these improvements, the report of the county treasurer shows that Jefferson Union high school's accounts are over $21,000 ahead of what they were four years ago. Four years ago Jefferson had to borrow from other county funds to pay teachers' warrants and merchants' bills until such time as the county taxes were collected. Today it is different. Jefferson high runs on a cash basis, and pays its bills as they become due. And this without any increase in the rate of taxation.

These are the policies of the Jefferson Union high school Board of Trustees, and in the making of which Adolph Gehringer has done his full share. His fellow members on the board know of his value to the school and to the taxpayers of the district. And it was only after their unanimous desire that he remain on the school board that he decided to be a candidate to succeed himself.

The membership of the Parent-Teachers' Association, too, support the candidacy of Mr. Gehringer, as do the citizens at large throughout the high school district.

Mr. Gehringer has been a resident of Daly City for over twenty-five years. He is a property owner here. His son and daughter are graduates of Jefferson. He and Mrs. Gehringer are members of the Parent-Teachers' Association.

The whole community speaks of Adolph Gehringer as a good citizen—a man whose integrity is never questioned, and who has no personal ax to grind. And those who know of his public work as a trustee of Jeefferson Union high school district believe he will be returned to the Board of Trustees by a vote that will be a handsome expression of appreciation of his past services to the district.

TANFORAN WILL HAVE CLEVER YOUNGSTERS

Danger looms for Linden Tree and other clever two year olds coming to Tanforan from Agua Caliente for the opening of the Spring meeting on Thursday, March 13. Unlike some other seasons the young thoroughbreds in this "neck of the woods" are remarkably forward and as they appear to be of more than ordinary class sparkling performances may be expected of them.

The opportunity afforded to the trainers of the babies by admitting horses to Tanforan for the first time in the off period of sport, helped materially in bringing them around to racing form. The conditioners started early in accustoming their youngsters to the track on which they will do their first racing, and for several weeks the breaking from the Bahr Stall Gates has put the finishing touches on their educations.

"Bring on your Linden Trees" is the unqualified challenge of A. K. Sloman, of the Hartwell-Compton establishment, one of the large stables at Tanforan.

FATHERS' NIGHT CELEBRATED BY WOODROW WILSON P. T. A.

The Woodrow Wilson-Vista Grande Parent-Teachers' Association celebrated Fathers' Night with a program held at the Methodist church on Tuesday evening. There was a large attendance and the program was well rendered. The flag drill by sixteen girls, with Virginia Callsen as Martha Washington and John Foreman as George Washington, opened the entertainment, being followed by several musical selections and two readings.

Mr. R. L. Crane, district superintendent of schools, was the main speaker. He talked on "The Parent and the Child." He stressed the facts that we should know what our child is doing during his leisure hours, know something of his ambitions, and encourage him, and win his utmost confidence.

Mr. Joe Larson sang two solos, and the closing number was by the Singing Mothers. Refreshments were served to all present.

Tuesday afternoon was the regular meeting. Delegates were chosen for both district and state conventions, to be held next month. The present officers were re-elected for the coming year.

Friday is Americanism day for the district and is to be at the high school in San Mateo. A large attendance is expected there.

There will be a whist and a dance in April. Watch for the dates.

A WORTH-WHILE CONTEST

A total of 357 American cities were entered in the National Traffic Safety contest when the list closed February 15, according to announcement of the National Safety Council. The purpose of the contest is to reduce automobile accidents and promote safe driving. The contest will run throughout the year and cities with the lowest accident rates in each population group will be awarded trophies, as will the state making the best aggregate showing.

Eleven of the thirteen cities with more than 500,000 population are enrolled, New York City and Buffalo being the only ones missing. Twenty-two of the twenty-four cities of between 250,000 and 500,000 are entered, along with two-thirds of the cities with more than 100,000 but less than a quarter million. The smaller population groups are likewise excellently represented. It is said that strenuous work by the American Legion and the Kiwanis International resulted in a flood of last minute entries. The response, so far as the council is concerned, was entirely voluntary, and demonstrates the eagerness of cities to seize an opportunity to do something definite about the accident problem. Sporadic local campaigns have too often proved ineffective.

Every person will wish the contest all success. The work done will do much to bring home to the driver the responsibility that is his when he takes the wheel of his car, and the need for safety, competence and plain old-fashioned courtesy on streets and highways. It will unquestionably be the means of saving thousands of lives that would otherwise be needlessly destroyed.

HOLY WEEK CUSTOMS

Many are the religious customs observed throughout Christendom during Holy Week, some of which would seem strange to us. Among these is the ceremony of "whipping the vegetation" which prevails in South American countries in connection with the observance of Good Friday.

In Colombia on this day, masked penitents march in small processions, silently and mournfully, whipping as they go the wayside vegetation, as well as the grasses and the fruits.

Dr. Cesar Uribe, former associate professor of Harvard Medical School, declares that the thrashing of the bushes and plants on Good Friday serves as a most effective pruning of dead leaves and branches.

During the Lenten weeks prior to Easter, Colombian housewives lay in large quantities of staple supplies, such as flour, potatoes, rice and sugar, in preparation for Holy Week. During Holy Week, all shops in Bogota are closed and food prices are nearly double in the preparatory period previous. Although Holy Week fasting is general, the prices reach a peak which adds greatly to the cost of living.

American tourists enjoying the luxury of an Easter cruise in southern waters, will find unusual interest in the religious processions which throng the main streets of Bogota, Colombia, on Easter Sunday, when penitents carry aloft the famous figures of saints noted for their jeweled headdresses. Thousands of chanting men and women followed the processions, which are among the most colorful to be seen anywhere.

UNCLE SAM'S GOOD DEAL

When Uncle Sam engages in any business transaction he usually gets skinned good and plenty, but there is one instance on record in which he made a really good deal, aided by a generous Alabama Corporation, and it was in connection with Muscle Shoals at that.

The story is told by a writer in the Review of Reviews, who relates how the Alabama Power Company, which formerly owned the Muscle Shoals site, donated it to the United States government as an act of patriotism when this country entered the World War. To make the transfer legal, the goverment gave the company a check for one dollar as compensation for the property, at the same time expressing appreciation of the gift. The writer continues:

"Later the power company reproduced the check in some literature which it was distributing, to inspire Southern citizens to similar gifts, whereupon the goverment fined the company $500 for reproducing a public document without official sanction. So the goverment made $499 on Muscle Shoals."

And, he might have added, the goverment hasn't made any further profit from the project since, because of the persistency of Congress in making Muscle Shoals a political football instead of handling it as a business proposition.

PERSHING'S PARSING

Ability to parse a sentence better than a fellow contestant for an appointment to West Point gave the United States its greatest living soldier, General John J. Pershing, according to a story recently published.

Back in 1881, when three Missouri boys appeared before an examining board which was to select an appointee to fill a vacancy at the United States Militar, Academy, Pershing was one of the three. He and another boy named Mallory were so evenly matched that the board was hard put to decide between them.

As a final test the board proposed for parsing the sentence: "We are as near heaven by sea as by land." Pershing did a perfect job of parsing while Mallory fell down, so Pershing got the appointment, was graduated from West Point, rose to high military rank and eventually became commander of the A. E. F.

His rival, J. D. Mallory, has had a modest but useful career and is still living as a rural school teacher near Purdin, Mo., having taught all these years. Possibly he could beat Pershing in parsing that same sentence today.

ONE RAILROAD YEAR

The detailed statement of operating receipts and expenses of the American railroads has recently been issued for 1930, the last year for which complete details are now available.

It is an interesting document and of importance to every investor, every worker, every citizen. During the year the total operating receipts from all sources were slightly over $5,281,000,000. More than $4,000,000,000 of this was required to keep property going—wages and cost of operating equipment. After deducting taxes, rent of leased roads, interest on borrowed money—paid to more than a million holders of bonds and equipment trust certificates—and total fixed charges, $265,000,000 was left, to which was added net miscellaneous income of something less than $31,000,000.

Cash dividends on railroad stock—an average return of 6 per cent on total stock outstanding, which represents nearly half of the roads' invested capital and is owned by 852,318 persons—totaled $479,000,000. Thus the railroads were not only left with a deficit of $201,167,000, but had absolutely nothing available for investing in new railroad facilities, or for making up deficiencies incurred in previous years, or for creating reserves for bad years in the future.

SCOFFS AT DAILY DOZEN

To those of us who do not relish a lot of physical culture excercises before breakfast or any other time, a recent pronouncement by Dr. Jesse F. Williams, professor of physical education at Teachers College, New York, comes as a message of cheer.

Dr. Williams declares that early rising to the accompaniment of an alarm clock, going through wearisome setting-up exercises and enduring a cold bath is "silly, superstitious and artificial."

Because of the mass of physical culture propaganda with which we have been deluged in recent years, we have come to believe that any sort of painful contortions which we loathe must be good for us. It is doubtful whether those who indulge in these fads are any healthier or longer lived than those who go through life naturally and painlessly.

Anyway, we hope Dr. Williams is right, and as his advice is easy to follow, we imagine that a good many will give it a thorough trial by forgetting the daily dozen and other ceremonies prescribed by faddists.

A bookkeeper may hold his job by getting the accounts so balled up that no one else can understand them.

MUSICAL TASTE BETTER

In spite of the preponderance of jazz and other trivial music on the air, Walter Damrosch believes that radio audiences are rapidly forming a taste for symphonic and other high class programs.

He has come to this conclusion from the many thousands of letters he has received from those who have enjoyed his concerts by a symphony orchestra during the past few years, and the great increase in these expressions of approval which have come to him during the recent months. He says:

"From the first I was confident the radio would bring about a new era in the history of symphonic music in this country, but I had no idea that the results would become apparent so quickly."

Several of America's finest symphony orchestras, grand opera companies and concert bands have been heard on the air regularly during the past season, all contributing tremendously to the development of a better appreciation of good music on the part of the general public. We should have even more such programs in the future.

A HUSBAND'S DUTY

If a man would be a good and prudent husband, he must see that the car his wife drives is kept in perfect mechanical condition. Otherwise he will deliberately expose her, as well as his children and friends, to deadly dangers which she has no means of avoiding and may not even realize.

"Women make skillful drivers, even if some do have a tendency to drive too fast," says an official of a company making brake linings, who has made a two year study of the automobile accident problem, but he adds:

"As a rule women place full confidence in the cars they drive, and when they put pressure on the brake pedal, for instance, they expect the brakes to operate quickly and efficiently. If the brakes are worn or out of adjustment, they do not produce this result, or they require a strength of pressure of which the average woman is not capable. If this happens in a traffic emergency there is likely to be a deadly smash-up, for which the wife may be blamed when the fault really lies with the husband who has failed to keep the car in safe condition."

It costs nothing to have brakes, head-lamps, steering gears, windshield wipers and tires inspected regularly by service station experts, and but little to have the necessary adjustments and replacements made. Neglect often results in expensive repair bills and great dangers. One accident, caused by such neglect, may cost an otherwise good husband his beloved family, his fortune, and a lifetime of self-recrimination.

THE MINING PROBLEM

We used to think of mining proplems as being exclusively within the province of the metal producing states, which are principally in the West.

That attitude has been changed, largely because of the drop in value of silver. This naturally forces retrenchment on the mines—and it likewise affects us all by making times harder. The buying power of whole nations has been cut to a fraction of its former level, and international trade is falling toward the point of non-existence.

Successful efforts to rehabilitate silver will naturally benefit the mines—but it is believed that the greatest benefit of all will go to the general public, in increased industrial activity and employment.

THE PRESENT CONGRESS

It is forutnate that the present Congress has been fairly free from half-baked and dangerous legislative proposals.

It is true that various bills have been urged which would, if passed, have done much to retard business recovery. But none of these has gone far. And Congress, working in conjunction with the President, has been responsible for several pieces of constructive legistation which are already benefiting the country at large.

Government can aid greatly both in restoring and maintaining prosperity. Or it can become, figuratively, a wall in the path of industrial progress. The orgy of spending we went through following the war was a main factor in bringing on depression—and heavy additional taxation would unnecessarily prolong it.

SPEED DEMON CAMPBELL

Following what has become in recent years his annual custom, Sir Malcolm Campbell of England again broke the world's record for automobile speed at Daytona Beach, Florida, a few days ago. In one mile stretch he reached the astounding velocity of 267 miles an hour.

Campbell first set a world's record at Copenhagen in 1923 with 137 miles an hour, a speed relatively slow compared with his later feat. Every year since, with the exception of 1926, he has lowered the record.

Upon leaving Florida for a visit in Canada before returning home, Campbell declared that he would return next year in the expectation of attaining a still greater speed. He is now 47 years old and has been driving racing cars for a quarter of a century.

Laws represent the will of the people, but too often it is the will of the wrong people.

The new "lame-duck" law may enable the lame ducks to get their Federal appointive jobs sooner.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Okla.

Floyd B. Rigdon, editor and publisher of the Maud, Oklahoma Daily Enterprise, says:

"A town has no place for a knocker. A knocker is hardly a man without a country, but his country, his town, or his community has little use for him.

"There are all kinds of knockers—as many as there are kinds of people. The thriving city is filled with boosters; boosters who so outnumber the knockers that knocking does not count for much.

"We like the boosters. Sometimes they are super-enthusiastic, or, rather, over-enthusiastic is the better word. But they are always enthusiastic for their home town or the cause in which they are interested, and they are never to be found hanging around somewhere knocking this and knocking that. No, a booster is not built that way.

"We must have these boosters; they are just as necessary to the successful enterprise as daylight is to the earth.

"Knockers are found everywhere just the same as boosters, but, let us be thankful for it, the boosters are always far in the lead; usually the knockers can be found in the rear, where it is safer for them, perhaps. They flock together, but even then they fail to make a crowd, as a rule.

"But the greatest booster is he who converts the knocker into a booster—'makes him see the light'—so that both play the game as team-mates ever after.

"A town has no place for the knocker—it matters not whether he knocks the town, its enterprises or its citizens. Show us a man who knocks his fellow citizens and we will show you the poorest excuse for a citizen extant."

MEANING OF LETTERS ON LICENSE PLATES

What the letters mean on California motor vehicle plates is a frequent question among motorists, observes the California State Automobile Association, which gives the following explanation of the letter system.

All letters on privately-owned passenger cars, with the exception of "E", are used only to eliminate a seventh numeral and have no special meaning. The "E" designates official cars, state-owned if enclosed in a diamond, city-owned when inside a square, and county-owned when in an oval. These cars are operated by police officers and other authorities.

The letters "PS" mean public service cars, or those operated as stages or buses between given points.

Commercial trucks with pneumatic tires carry the license letters "PC", while those equipped with solid tires are marked "SC" on the plates. The letters "U. S." are for cars operated by representatives of the federal government or foreign counsels. Automobile dealers' cars, of course, are easily recognized by the letters "DLR" on the license plates.

PLANS ACTION ON DRUNKEN DRIVERS

New methods for curbing the drunken driver menace are being worked out in San Francisco and will be put into effect at an early date, reports the California State Automobile Association. Extensive studies of the problem have been completed and recommendations for a definite plan of action are expected to be made by the traffic law enforcement board.

How to bring about greater certainty of conviction and punishment for persons charged with driving while drunk is the question to which police, municipal judges, the district attorney's office, the health departments, and the motorists' organization have given weeks of thought and investigation.

One of the plans is to have suspected drunken drivers taken at once by the arresting officer to the nearest emergency hospital for an examination which will provide authoritative medical evidence of their condition.

Dr. J. C. Geiger, city health officer, has called in the assistance of medical scientists of the University of California and Stanford University in working out a series of reliable tests for determining degrees of intoxication. Physical and chemical standards of drunkenness have been established and a scientific method of examination devised.

Another phase of the problem is the great number of dismissals in drunken driver cases owing to the failure of complaining witnesses to appear when the cases are called for trial, according to Percy E. Towne, chairman of the traffic law enforcement board. Judges and prosecuting officers declare that in many such cases the courts are used as collection agencies for damages, complainants refusing to prosecute after they have obtained a settlement for the injuries or losses. One of the proposals is that complaining witnesses shall be required to make an affidavit or complete a written statement immediately after an accident, and shall be compelled to appear in court and sign the complaint the morning following the arrest.

RANCHERS WAGING WAR ON HERD OF TULE ELK

Ranchers of Kern county are about to be free of the problem of having their crops destroyed by the roaming herd of some 300 Tule elk in that district.

At a meeting of the State Fish and Game Commission, held in Los Angeles, President J. Dayle Gentry and Commissioner Earl B. Gilmore met with a delegation of county officials and sportsmen and agreed to take over the park of 1,000 acres purchased by the board of supervisors of Kern county and the State Park Commission for $70,000. The Fish and Game Commission will fence and maintain the park as a refuge for the elk and other game animals and birds.

It is proposed to round up about 100 of the elk and confine them in the enclosure, the remaining to be captured and disposed of.

An Ohio town ordinance provides as follows: "When two cars come to a crossing both shall stop and neither shall start until the other is gone." If this be carefully observed there will not be many collisions, but there may be some slight traffic congestion.

There are a still a few living who can remember when there was no Muscle Shoals problem before Congress.

PLAN DUCK RESTING PLACE IN THE NORTH

The first definite step toward determining the feasibility of reflooding the Lower Klamath Lake properties of some 80,000 acres, and restoring that area to its former prominence as a duck breeding and resting place, which for years has been a controversal problem, was made at a meeting of the State Fish and Game Commission with the chairman of the advisory committee on game refuges.

On recommendation of Chairman Nathan Moore of the refuge committee, a resolution was adopted employing F. L. Lathrop, expert technical land appraiser of Palo Alto, to make a survey of all phases of the project.

Under the terms of the agreement with Lathrop the latter is to furnish a complete legislative history of the lake dating from 1905, give a list of present owners, water rights, and power rights, as well as furnish data on restrictive contracts against flooding, also present problems of engineering involving flooding as well as a general survey of physical conditions, and an opinion as to the success or failure of the land now drained for agricultural purposes.

Prior to reclaiming this vast area which lies in Oregon and California, the Lower Klamath Lake was one of the greatest duck havens on the coast. In the days of market shooting it is reported as high as a quarter million ducks were killed annually, and as high as 5,000,000 visited the section each year.

After the lake was drained the ducks deserted the region, and with reports that the land thus reclaimed was unfit for farming, many efforts have been made to open the dams and reflood the lake bed. However, so many technical as well as legal questions were raised that nothing tangible has ever been accomplished. The present fish and game commissioners hope, through the work of Lathrop, to find out if it will be possible to pursue the matter further.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

That the stores that advertise give variety, quality, service and prices that are right. Their merchandise is good to look at, and is just as good as it looks.

Their stores are overflowing with countless money-saving items, and it is well worth your time to make a special trip to see them.

They maintain a reputation for giving value for your money and at all times you can find there new merchandise at reasonable prices.

They keep faith with the public. They always maintain the policy that has built their business.

You can find the merchandise there you want at the time you want it. You will also find courteous treatment and personal service.

They carry standard goods, assuring you of the best on the market.

They have the cleanest and most up-to-date stocks in the city, because persistent advertising has given them quick turnouver, which leaves no shelf-warmers.

Their every thought is to serve you, knowing that the better they serve the better the business.

It is what you save that counts. Save by buying from the stores that advertise.

SIDELIGHTS

A marital record that is probably unique is that of a Mrs. Morris, an Ohio woman. First she married J. W. Pearsons, then divorced him to marry Samuel Morris, later divorced Morris to re-marry Parsons, and finally divorced Parsons to re-marry Morris. Now Parsons is probably awaiting his next turn.

Kate Smith, jolly 208-pound radio and vaudeville singer, has made quite a jump, so to speak, since she made her debut less than six years ago, at a benefit performance in Washington for which she received no pay. In spite of current wage cuts, her vaudeville salary was recently increased to $6,000 a week.

Elsie Janis, whose more than 600 performances for soldiers during the World War gained her the title of "Sweetheart of the A. E. F.," was married recently at the age of 42, and jokingly remarked that she had got a husband and a child at the same time. The husband is Gilbert Wilson, a "child" of 26 years.

The appointment of Judge Benjamin N. Cardozo of New York to the United States Supreme Court bench to succeed Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, resigned, has been widely commended. Judge Cardozo is a Jew, and his appointment places two citizens of that race on the nation's highest tribunal, Justice Louis D. Brandeis, appointed by President Wilson in 1916, being the other.

Sterilized kissing has been advocated by certain London hygienists, and various methods of avoiding germ transmission have been suggested. But Dr. Edith Corvan doesn't think much of such innovations, which she characterizes as "non-infectious, non-corrosive, non-satisfying and nonsensical." We are inclined to agree with Dr. Corvan.

Real kleptomaniacs are often found plying their avocation of petty thieving for no apparent reason except that they are kleptomaniacs. The wife of a prominent New Yorker was caught stealing a child's coat. Search of her home revealed a complete child's wardrobe which she had stolen, although she had no children.

Satisfaction all around followed the arrest of Mrs Lelin, a 22-year old lady bootlegger of Chicago, who had plied her trade for 10 years without running afoul of the law. She thanked the police for seizing her car containing liquor, and said: "I'm tired of it; I wish you would get my husband, too, and make him get out of this racket."

After more than 20 years as a country editor, W. O. Saunders of Elizabeth City, N. C., printed this bit of wisdom: "I have learned that the American people have a lively passion for the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, about everything and everybody—except themselves and their family connections."

Anna Coddrell, an English fortune teller, may have pleased her clients with prognostications concerning their future, but she fell down sadly when she tried to forsee her own fate. Arrested for plying her profession she predicted that she would be speedily acquitted. And got eight months in jail.

Ten years ago there were in the United States 132 companies manufacturing automobiles; now there are only 19. The 19 companies produced 34 different makes of cars. In 1931 the 10 leading companies produced 40 per cent of the output; in 1931 the 10 leaders produced more than 90 per cent of the total. Thus operates the law of "the survival of the fittest."

PUBLIC SCHOOL WEEK BEGINS ON APRIL 25

State Superintendent of Public Instruction Vierling Kersey, in a statement issued through the state committee on public schools week, beginning April 25, called on school people and the public generally to help make the coming thirteenth observance of the week the most successful in California's history.

Public schools week has become an annual event, joined in by Chambers of Commerce, Parent-Teacher organizations, the American Legion, civic and commercial groups, and Mayors and City Councils of municipalities throughout the state.

An especial feature this year will be the problems of rural schools in the smaller communities in relation to the general state-wide school program.

In his public appeal, Superintendent Kersey says:

"One of the most important responsibilities facing educators today—and through the educators the public generally, the parents of the pupils and the tax-payers—is that of interpreting educational programs and school work.

"The educational profession has a definite obligation in acquainting parents and the public at large with modern educational theories.

"It is the purpose of public schools week to explain the 'how' and 'why' of our modern educational program.

"An intelligent understanding of educational purposes and procedures on the part of the public should result in a more effective educational program.

"The purpose of public schools week is to bring the school people and the public to a better understanding of the mutual problems of each in the proper educational upbringing of our boys and girls."

Early reports to state headquarters in San Francisco indicate there will be over 600 meetings held this year during the week's observance, the meetings in all the larger cities of the state being held in public schools auditoriums.

"To treat your adversary with respect is to give him an advantage to which he is not entitled," said the famed Dr. Johnson. While many candidates may not be familiar with the saying, it is safe to say that they will adhere to the idea it expresses.

George Mardy, waving a revolver, walked uninvited into a party in Chicago. He paid a $100 fine.

AVERAGE CAR OWNER TELLS VIEW ON TAX

A cross-section of attitude of the average American automobile owner toward new federal taxation has been pointedly brought to the attention of Congress as a result of the recent coast to coast broadcast protesting against a federal gasoline tax and other proposed levies. The "mass meeting of the air" was sponsored by the American Automobile Association, with the California State Automobile Association in charge of arrangements in this territory.

Ordinary citizens from all parts of the country told how additional tax burdens would affect them. One of the typical talks was made by John Leonard, a rancher, who spoke as follows:

"I own a small ranch in Santa Clara Valley. I can not possibly carry on without my truck and automobile. I depend entirely on the truck to get my products to market. My automobile is a work wagon 90 per cent of the time. It is only by auto that labor can reach me.

"Prices of farm products have greatly declined, but my land taxes have gone sky high. It is more difficult every day for us farmers to finance ourselves. The cost of running my truck and auto is a big item in our expenses, which are heavy enough without an increase in taxes.

"We ranchers have looked to Washington to at least not increase our burdens in these hard times."

Similar plain talk was offered by salesmen, mechanics, physicians, teachers, and persons in other walks of life, each telling how new taxes would particularly affect them.

E. B. DeGolia, acting president of the California State Automobile Association, concluded the program for the west, speaking in part as follows:

"You have listened to a nation-wide protest against federal taxes on the motorist. There are persons in this state who desire to increase our gasoline tax for several new purposes, and others who advocate diversion of some of the funds now received.

"We must resist these proposals. Our safe and business-like highway program can only be continued by leaving things alone. The motorist pays enough taxes now."

We hear no suggestion that the five-day week be extended to housewives.

An educator advances the novel idea that school shildren should be taught how to spell.

COVERING FOOLED THE RACING CLAN

George A. Pope, Jr., who has raced quite a bit at Tanforan, had two horses entered in the Tijuana sport on a stormy day several seasons ago. The "preferred" one was lost in the shuffle and the other—an unprepossessing filly called Covering—scored at odds of about 100 to 1. It was the popular polo player's bad luck he did not recognize Covering's quality.

Covering has a way of fooling the racing clan. She not only scored when racing unbacked, but since being retired to the breeding paddock she is continually surprising. No one seems to be able to take the daughter of War Cry with much seriousness.

At the meet at Tanforan, to begin Thursday, March 31, three sons of the well known, but underestimated mare, are likely to compete under the silks of various owners. They are: Bahamas, winner of the Agua Caliente Derby and Pacific Coast Breeders Handicap; Liolele, winner of handicaps at Agua Caliente; Silk Covering, a two year old.

It may be that Silk Covering is destined to be as good or better than either Bahamas or Liolele, and that will be right in accordance with the unexpected happenings connected with the matron right along.

When Covering had her first foal, by the phenomenally fleet Easter Bells, C. A. Hartwell offered to trade her to George J. Meyer, publisher of the Home Stretch, for the Rock View mare Vain Chick. The hoodoo hovering over the mare kept Meyer from making the exchange, and he has had a hard time ever since trying to explain to himself his want of perspicacity.

Vain Chick "failed to deliver" in the way of producing stakes and handicap winners. That's all the "turned down" Covering does.

A lovers' quarrel which started more than 43 years ago has been patched up at last. And the happy ending has resulted in the marriage of Tom Escue and Sarah Sullins, each aged 60, in Springfield, Mo. They had a spat a few days before they were to have been married in 1888, when they were 17 years old, and only recently agreed on terms of peace—or maybe it is only an armistice.

High-toned funerals in Buenos Aires rival in expense some of those accorded Chicago gangsters. One undertaker's bill in the Argentine metropolis included these items: 17 aged women ot faint upon viewing the corpse, $225; 41 women to weep one hour, $410; mourning handkerchief's $90; pastor's fees, $150. The total bill was $4,700, but a court deemed the charge excessive and the mortician lost a suit brought to collect it.

Gambling is said to be a normal human weakness, which may account for some of the marriages that take place.

It is said that "money talks." But not when hoarded.

PRECEDING EVENTS

Joe Barry, country youth in New York, ekes out a living as caretaker in a poor rooming house and accordion player in Louie Bertolini's restaurant. Lured by the open country, he spends a night in the fields, near Newburgh. Bertolini discharges him. Friendless and "broke," he is offered $10,000 by a man he knows only as "Martin" to impersonate a liquor runner facing arrest. It means the penitentiary, but Joe is desperate. He defers decision until the next night, and is given $1,000 "on account." Next day Joe deposits $800 in country banks, giving his name as Joseph Bradley. A circus attracts him. Outside a tent he sees an accordion and is tempted to play it. A girl, Sue Dayton, niece of the owner who admires the music, urges him to join the circus, but Joe says he must first return to New York "on business." He has decided to refuse "Martin's" offer. In his room four men accost him. Bewildered, Joe sees the men, who are detectives, find large amounts of money, a machine gun, and two revolvers. Next day, under arrest, Joe is identified by men who had seen him the night before near Newburgh, when two prohibition agents were killed and robbed. Joe finds he is charged with their murder and robbery. He realizes "Martin's" object—to have him found guilty of the murders, executed, and the case closed. A man known as "Fullhouse," waiter at Bertolini's, hurts Joe's case by his evidence. Joe keeps silent as to his previous day's doings, fearing to embarrass Sue Dayton. Pete Maxwell, a detective, appears friendly, but Joe fears everybody. His cellmate, Hymie Fradke, gives Joe $20. Next day Fradke, having secured a revolver, "shoots it out" with prison guards, and is killed. In the confusion Joe escapes. Using the $20 Fradke had given him, Joe flees New York.

This was to be his trial. Certainly bankers would watch the newspapers, and be alert for the sight of criminals. Immediately, Joe fought against the word; he was not a criminal, he told himself. But he laughed mirthlessly; it was a grimace and an expulsion of breath, little more. He was adjudged a criminal and he was being hunted as a criminal; a murderer, if that made it any clearer, and what difference did it make if in his own mind, he knew himself to be innocent?

That was bad reasoning. It made him shaky. Then suddenly he whirled, walking swiftly, and turned in at the door of the bank.

"Good afternoon," he said, and waited. The banker looked up.

"Oh, hello," he said, and smiled. "Back to make that other deposit?"

Joe Barry cleared his throat.

"No—I'm sorry. I've got to draw out some money."

"Certainly, certainly." Then the banker passed over a saving account withdrawal slip and made a remark about that most casual of things, the weather. After a time, Joe picked up the pen. His hand had stopped shaking.

Then, almost before he realized it, he was out of the bank. Free, and money in his pocket. He had drawn only half of his deposit but it was enough. There would be no need to take the risk of going to the other bank; all custodians of money might not be alike.

He had money in his pocket—two hundred dollars. He could buy a ticket all the way across the continent with that and still have something to live on after he had made the journey. His brain was filled with the thought, of the clatter of trains, the rush and roar of miles slipping away beneath him, strange cities where one could lose oneself, ships at anchor, looking for eager, hardworking young men. More and more glorious became the thought of the far away. Then it all was gone.

For Joe Barry realized that he was standing still, half turned from the chipped sidewalk which led to the blackened railroad station. Before him was a wooden fence, and upon that fence, the rain-washed, tattered posters of a departed circus.

* * * * * * *

Two days later, Joe Barry stood on the curbing of a down-town business block in the quiet old town of Frederick, Md., his own troubles for the moment forgotten. From far down the street, there came the faint music of a band, rising through the steady overtones of its bass drum. With this the crowded sidewalks forgot other things in an undulating bulge toward the curb, like the sweep of a wave.

The music of the band became louder. Joe Barry edged forward. He had come here only after mental travail. In a few minutes now, the "grand, glittering and glorious pageant" of the Dayton Brothers circus would pass him, and he would see little of it, save one person. And when that view had been gained, that one bit of worship silently and surreptitiously given, Joe Barry would go on—to far places, to ships that sailed the seas. He felt he could not do otherwise.

He had fought it all out, that day he had seen the posters, down by the railroad station. Conditions had changed since, flushed with the lure of a new life, Joe Barry had promised to come back to the Dayton Brothers circus just as soon as he could be released "from his other job."

Now, he knew, there could be no release. His job was a job of a life or death; either it clung to him like a hated scourge, to haunt him throughout the years, or it would send him to where men screamed and beat their rough shoes against the floor late at night when one of their number, his head shaved and his trouser legs slit to make way for the touch of clammy electrodes, went through a little door, never to come back. Joe Barry had been forced in the last few, year-like days, to face this situation with something of dull resignation; there was nothing else to do. But the complications of his heart had not, in the turmoil, been reckoned with.

The poster had brought them into sharp relief. Lonely, harassed, hungry for some one who would be kind to him, he had stood before those tattered circus bills like a reverent person before an altar. If he could only see her and hear her voice; if he could once more stand beside her, watching the slanting sun string its filmy gold through her soft hair, to have her talk to him, the tones of her as soft as a caress! The protective side of him had cried out against the thought, while the heart of him throbbed and pounded for her and demanded her, this one thing above all the world. So, at last, there had been a compromise.

Joe Barry was going away, forever; she must never see him again because he no longer was the man she had met that day on the circus grounds. But he could see her, a fleeting glimpse, he could watch her approach him, and watch her pass; he could follow her as far as eyes could see, and then, when she passed from his vision he could say good-by to her, he could whisper so that no one but himself would know. If he could only see her again, he had told himself, the future might be easier. Perhaps she would be smiling when she passed him.

That was why he now stood on the curbing in Frederick, thrilling strangely to the approaching music of the circus band. Steam had appeared from far away, floating over the asphalt-colored hulks of heaving forms; the elephants were in the distance and behind them the calliope, denoting the end of the parade. Anxiety struck Joe Barry, that somehow he had missed her. Suddenly forgetful, he stepped into the street for a better view, only to draw back with something of impatience as a marshal rode along the line of spectators to hold them to their places. Suddenly he gasped. A girl, trim in riding clothes, was smiling down at him, her hand extended.

"I Felt Sure You'd Come Today!" Sue Dayton Said, and Leaned Far From Her Saddle to Clasp the Suddenly Cold Hand.

"I felt sure you'd come today!" Sue Dayton said and leaned far from her saddle to clasp the suddenly cold hand he had raised to her. "I told Uncle Dan you'd be here today!"

Then, with a swift movement, she had swung out of the saddle. Joe Barry dazedly knew that he was laughing boyishly and telling some hastily conceived untruth about a delay; beyond that he forgot all except that he was talking to her. But the crowd was milling now. Sue Dayton swung her horse about quickly, as if to mount.

"I saw you from half down the block," she laughed. "Queer, wasn't it? You see, I never go in parade—except this way." She glanced along the line of march. "I've got to get on! Uncle Dan's not feeling well today—I've got to watch his section, too. You'll come back right after my act?"

She caught her stirrup and swung to the saddle and turned to wave to him as the horse trotted on in the wake of the parade. Joe Barry only stood there, a lone figure now against the curbing. In that vague, tangled conversation in which Joe had asked and answered questions, he had made a promise. Yes, he had told her, he'd come back to her tent, right after she had finished her act in the sawdust ring!

STORY FOR BEDTIME

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

PETER RABBIT had run over to the Smiling Pool for a bit of gossip with Grandfather Frog if he were in sight, or with anyone else who might happen to be there in case Grandfather Frog was not. He had just reached the bank of the Smiling Pool and had time to see that Grandfather Frog's big green lily-pad was quite lonely looking without Grandfather Frog sitting on it, and that Jerry Muskrat was sitting on the end of an old log which was half in the water and half out, when he looked toward the Green Forest and saw the stranger who belonged to the Hawk family headed toward the Smiling Pool.

"Hello! Good-by!" shouted Peter to Jerry Muskrat and scampered for a hole between the roots of the Big Hickory Tree which grows near the bank of the Smiling Pool. Once in the hole he drew a long breath of thankfulness. Then he turned and watched the big stranger, whose broad wings were bringing him straight over the Smiling Pool. "Queer I never have seen him try to catch anyone, nor have I ever heard anyone complain of being chased by him," muttered Peter. "I wonder what he lives on."

Peter Saw That In His Claws Was Clutched Something—Something Big.

As Peter said later, things happened then just as if they were in answer to his thoughts. The big stranger was just above the Smiling Pool and headed straight toward the Big River. Just as he got right over the middle of the Smiling Pool he turned a little circle in the air, seemed to hang there perfectly still for a second, and then with his wings closed he shot down, down, down, so fast that it quite took away Peter's breath just to watch him.

Peter's first thought was of Jerry Muskrat. Of course that must be who this great stranger with the ugly great claws was after. From his hiding place he couldn't see the Smiling Pool, although it was so near. And so, of course, he couldn't see Jerry Muskrat. With all his heart he hoped that Jerry saw the danger, and he listened for the splash when Jerry dived into the water. But there was no splash—that is, there was no splash by Jerry. Down plunged the stranger, and Peter watched for him to spread those great wings and stop himself. But he didn't do anything of the kind. He kept right on down and disappeared! Yes, sir, that is just what he did, and when he disappeared there was splash enough. Oh, my, yes! There was such a splash that Peter could see the water flying higher than the banks of the Smiling Pool.

"Why! Why-e-e! Something must have happened to him and he has fallen into the Smiling Pool," gasped Peter, staring round-eyed at the place where the stranger had disappeared. As he stared there was another great splashing, and up in the air rose the stranger sending a shower of sparkling drops in all directions. With heavy wing beats he rose and then Peter saw that in his claws was clutched something—something big. For just a second Peter feared to look lest he should see his old friend Jerry Muskrat clutched in those great, cruel claws. But he did look, and when he saw that that something was shining and silvery he knew that it wasn't Jerry. It was a fish, a big fish!

Up, up rose the stranger and then turned, and with great beats headed straight back for the Green Forest, taking the big fish with him. As soon as he felt that it was safe to do so, Peter came out of his retreat and hurried to the bank of the Smiling Pool. There sat Jerry Muskrat on his old log quite as if nothing surprising and unusual had happened. He was munching away on a tender lily root.

"What did you run away for?" he demanded of Peter as soon as Peter came in sight.

"Why, to hide from that fellow, of course," replied Peter, pointing to the direction of the big stranger. "Where did you hide?"

"Hide! Me hide?" exclaimed Jerry, and stopped eating to stare at Peter to see if he were in earnest. "What should I hide for? For that matter, what did you hide for? Do you mean to say you were afraid of that fellow? Ho, ho, ho! That's a joke. Why, he wouldn't harm a hair of your head or mine."

Peter looked doubtful. "Who is he?" he demanded. "He's a Hawk isn't he? I wouldn't trust a Hawk as far as I can see one."

"That just shows how ignorant you are," retorted Jerry. "That is Plunger, the Osprey. He is a Hawk, it is true, but he lives wholly on fish and you haven't a thing in the world to fear from him.

Will likely first arrive,
While those up hoeing 'taters
At six may long survive.

I do not think that heaven
Is closed forevermore
To those not up at seven,
But up the night before.
I do not think that Eden
Is closed, and they accursed.
In fact, the life they're leadin',
They'll likely get there first.

The ones, as I was sayin',
Who with the dawn arise
More likely are delayin'
Their trip to Paradise.
In spite of all the preachin'
We hear in ev'ry tongue,
And all our other teachin',
It is the bad die young.

FRUIT SALADS

FRUIT salad is especially valuable to balance heavy foods. With oranges as the basic fruit, many pleasing comminations may be had with cheese, nuts and dried fruits.

Vitamin Salad.

On a lettuce covered plate, place a square or scoop of cottage cheese, stand on end sections of orange. Top with half a pecan or walnut meat and serve with:

French Honey Dressing.

Take three tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, six tablespoonfuls of salad oil, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of paprika and one-fourth cupful of strained honey. Shake thoroughly before serving.

Orange and Date Salad.

Take two large oranges, arrange in sections of six on lettuce radiating from the center on the salad plate. In the center place stuffed dates, four to a serving. Top with a rose of mayonnaise.

Fruit Salad in Orange Cups.

Cut three large oranges into halves, remove the pulp carefully and mix with two slices of diced pineapple, twelve quartered marshmallows, one-third of a cupful of pecan meats and two-thirds of a cupful of diced pear. Serve the orange cups filled with the fruit mixed with mayonnaise and whipped cream. Serve on lettuce and garnish the top of each with nut meats.

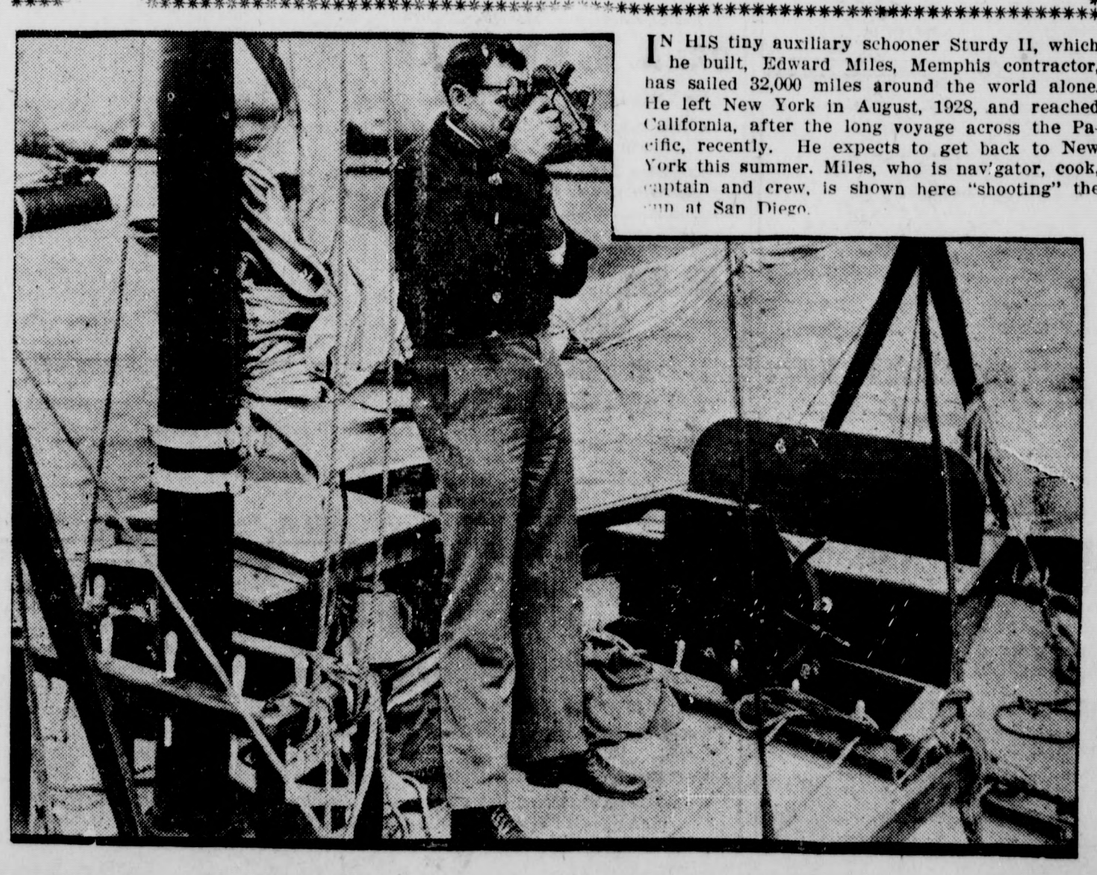
Sailing Around the World All by Himself



IN HIS tiny auxiliary schooner Sturdy II, which he built, Edward Miles, Memphis contractor, has sailed 32,000 miles around the world alone. He left New York in August, 1928, and reached California, after the long voyage across the Pacific, recently. He expects to get back to New York this summer. Miles, who is navigator, cook, captain and crew, is shown here "shooting" the sun at San Diego.
